SALUTE TO TRANSCO . . .

Appomattox is a growing town for many reasons. One of them is that many outside industries and activities have located in our area. They have contributed to the overall economic well-being of this historic community.

Five years ago a new friend came to Appomattox — Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., of Houston, Texas. For many months a large group of pipeline workers were in midst while over 75 miles of pipeline were being laid from Pittsylvania County, on through Campbell, Appomattox and Buckingham. Concurrently with the pipeline laying, a $2,250,000 compressor station was constructed in our county, near the Town of Appomattox. Upon completion of the construction projects, a maintenance crew took over and permanent installations were manned and now provide a steady payroll to add to the business life of Appomattox. Furthermore, the investment in our county, with the compressor station property, has made Transco one of our very top taxpayers. In every way, Appmattox is better off because of the coming of Transco.

The fifth anniversary of the advent of Transco would in itself provide cause for this "salute" from home-town business places who know full well what Transco has meant to the community. But now, on the heels of a happy five years ofassociation, comes most welcome news——

The Pipeliners Are Coming Again

Yes, we are told, that along about April, a new crew will come here, and will engage in the latest project: to loop the present line, with some 86 miles of new installation so as to increase the carrying capacity to Transco customers.

This is welcome news, and could become, for us, the big event of 1955. It is understood that some $12,000,000 is to be spent in Virginia to lay additional pipelines, with contracts to be let within two weeks. The new lines will enable Transco to pump more natural gas from Texas, through Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The present line cost over $350,000,000, and has 1,800 miles of pipe from Texas to Philadelphia. The new loop line in this area will begin between Chatham and Gretna and end near Scottsville.

The new project will require at least four months, it is thought, and during that time, Appomattox will want to play host to some very fine workers, and seek to provide them with every possible accomodation.

Transco has over 1,800 miles of main transmission line, 85 per cent of it 30-inch. The corporation operates 19 compressor stations with a total capacity of about 260,000 HP. Daily delivery is over 550 million cubic feet of gas, allocated to 14 distributors and 43 smaller customers. More than 82 per cent goes north of the Potomac River and about half to the great New York area. But calls for more natural gas are booming all over the South, where industry is expanding.

The future of natural gas is tremendously bright. There is a tremendous potential for expansion.

Appomattox is indeed fortunate to be rated so highly in the Transco picture. Looking back with satisfaction on the past five years of association with this outstanding firm, we can see the pattern of future relations. To the personnel at the Appomattox compressor station, to the line maintenance crew—and now to those who will be here in a few weeks to add new pipelines— we extend this hearty salute, and we pledge our best to develop and maintain the atmosphere of Good Neighbors.

Care of Eggs

How does your dealer care for his stock of eggs? The U. S. Department of Agriculture says you'll be wise to buy from a dealer who keeps his supply under refrigeration and who sells them from a refrigerated display case. Such eggs will have kept their quality better.

Carver-Price School News

Hello Readers! There have been several interesting assembly programs. On Tuesday, February 22, the 4-H Club presented to the school a scoreboard for our basketball games. The idea originated within the club and the board was designed by County Agent G. L. James. It is similar to the electric scoreboard and is greatly needed here for our games. A rally was conducted by the 4-H leaders and classes. A total of $52.00 was raised by them. Before the presentation, a report was made by Mr. James on projects conducted by the members, the Sears' Pig Chain and the 22 members having participated in it and the recent prizes and money won at the Farmville Livestock Show and Fair. Roosevelt Forbes, Club President, presented the scoreboard to Principal R. E. Patrick who then made timely remarks. Mr. James then demonstrated the workings of the board and the importance of taking good care of it. We want to thank this organization for it.

On last Monday, the Forestry Service representatives showed two films on prevention of forest fires and what we can do to preserve the forests. Comments were made by Mr. Bowling of the Forestry Service.

Last Tuesday, February 15, in observing Negro History Week, the Negro History Class with Mr. James H. Clay, Instructor, presented in Assembly a very interesting panel with Leon Turner as Chairman. Participants were Rosa Jones, Winston Jones and Allen Watkins. The life of Abraham Lincoln was given by Chester Nicholas, an eighth grade student. This biographical sketch was well presented. A question and answer period was held at the end of the panel and many timely questions were addressed to the panelists.

Wednesday, February 16, the New Farmers of America, with Rev. R. Q. Lawing, Advisor, held their initiation service in the auditorium. Fifteen candidates were initiated into the chapter and received pins.

The game played in Lexington at the Lilyburn Downing High School was a defeat for us last Thursday, February 17. Tuesday night, February 22, at 8:00 P. M. we played Downing High here. The score was 60 to 47 with the Carver Panthers winning by a large margin. A grand game!

The Tenth grade girls are very busy making attractive cottons in Home Economice. This class is also inviting the student body to a movie on February 28, "The Harlem Globetrotters," in which Dorothy Dandridge stars.

A very interesting letter sent to Mrs. H. P. James and the English 11 class was received Tuesday from Warren Minnifield now stationed in Korea with the Army Air Corps. His letter was most interesting and he thanked the class for sending him a copy of the school paper. He stated: "I've been over here in Korea over six months now and it's quite an experience. I never imagined it would be like this. The Koreans are very poor, living conditions are bad, most of them live in straw houses which are very close together; there is a lot of disease and death due to lack of medicine and unsanitary living conditions. To sum it all up, they are a very poor and destitute group of people with no modern conveniences."

Warren has served 18 months in the Army, completing Radio School in Mississippi. He stated he is now a Senior Radio Operator . . . "Our job concerns mostly weather. We intercept Russian and Chinese weather, then send and relay it to all parts of Korea. I plan to go back to school when I get out and to attend another technical school while still in the service. I hope there are aren't many drop outs in school now for once they get out the're going to find things are quite different." We read with a great deal of pride Warren's letter, for he was an Honor Student in the class of 1953.

Until next week our thought:

"Watching the birds sunning themselves against the blue sky, how wonderful to be free! Free of the petty pressures and the poignant pains of the day. Free of the tired torments of the night. Free to believe with the heart and feel with the mind. Free to take off the shoes of the soul and wiggle the toes of simple being. But it is foolish to envy the fluttering birds. They are only a symbol of what we seek."

Home freezer owners love the way we cater to their every need. We are here to see that their freezers are filled with the finest foods at the lowest possible prices.

TREE PLANTING FOR WILDLIFE

Growing out of the appointment of I. T. Quinn, executive director of the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, by the Governor to his committee on tree planting, is the Commission's consideration of a program of planting trees which bear fruit suitable for wildlife.

The first year's program will be confined to state lands and probably to federal land, in cooperation with the United States Forest Service.
